Open Rehearsals

Wednesday 4th &

11th September 2019, 7.30pm

St Bride's Hall,
Derryvolgie Avenue, Belfast

Every year Belfast Philharmonic Choir performs a season of fantastic concerts - some alone and some alongside the famous Ulster Orchestra in the Belfast Waterfront and Ulster Hall. Every year we recruit for new singers to supplement our ranks as Northern Ireland's only symphonic choir. If you joined us in September, you could be singing in our annual performance of Handel's Messiah in the Waterfront Hall this December!

If you are looking for a new singing challenge, want to get back into singing after some time away, or just want to know what it's like to sing alongside a large choir, come along to our open rehearsals on Wednesday 4th and 11th September 2019. You'll have the opportunity to sing with the Belfast Philharmonic Choir, working through a piece from the upcoming 2019/20 season, conducted by our Chorus Master, Stephen Doughty.

Afterwards you can ask questions about the audition process and sign up for a time to be auditioned later in the month. Even if you aren't sure about auditioning yet, it's a great opportunity to sing with a large choir and find out more about the Philharmonic. We look forward to meeting you!

Open Rehearsals are held in:
St Bride's Hall, Derryvolgie Avenue, Belfast, BT9 6FP

Registration will be open from 7pm and the rehearsal will start at 7.30pm. Please bring a pencil and a bottle of water - scores will be provided.
